Rich's practice focuses on corporate, banking, mergers and acquisitions and commercial real estate matters as a way of ensuring family and closely held businesses continue to thrive, survive, and provide for future generations. He has unique insight into family business as he has been a part of two large, complex family businesses personally as well as professionally for nearly his entire life. He also serves as Family and Personal General Counsel for many high net worth and high-income families and individuals.

Helping businesses confront, plan for, and document succession planning and general corporate matters requires diplomacy and emotional acuity in addition to legal expertise. With nearly four decades of experience, Rich has drafted and negotiated countless operating agreements, shareholder agreements, buy-sell agreements, consulting and employment agreements, severance and non-compete agreements, as well as asset, stock, and real estate sales and purchase agreements.

As a trusted advisor, Rich serves as Outside General Counsel for the largest US manufacturer of hats including the most famous brands in head wear: Stetson and Resistol as well as other western and dress brands.
